Increases range 8-11 percent

Bay school employees to receive pay hikes

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

All Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District employees will receive eight to 11 percent pay raises.

J.D. McCullough, district superintendent of education, said Tuesday the raises will be effective in July for those hired on a 12-month basis and August all other employees such as teachers and cafeteria workers.

At a special meeting Monday night, the district board of trustees approved all pay hikes recommended by McCullough except a salary supplement schedule, the superintendent reported.

Supplemental funds are paid to employees who also work as coaches or directors of extracurricular student activities, he noted.

McCullough said the board directed him to consider more factors regarding supplemental pay scales and present another proposal at the trustees' next meeting.

The superintendent reported he will appoint a committee consisting of various administrators to study the supplements and help draft a second recommendation.

A pay scale for 'assistant teachers,' for the first grade, as directed by the State Legislature as a first-year step toward establishing a statewide kindergarten program, will also be presented to the board, McCullough revealed.

He estimated six assistant teachers will be hired for the 1983-84 school year based on a state requirement of one teacher for every 24 students.

McCullough said his 11 percent pay hike, raising his salary to $38,900, was approved by the board.

He reported other annual salary increases approved include:

—Donald Caldwell, assistant superintendent, with a 10 percent raise bringing his pay to $33,838;

—Robert Magee, Bay Senior High School principal, at 9.5 percent for $31,308;

—Frank Ladner, BSHS assistant principal, at 9.5 percent for $27,726;

—W.J. Cameron, Bay Junior High School principal, at 9.5 percent for $27,226;

—Mike Cave, BJHS assistant principal, at 10.4 percent for $21,863;

—Roger James, North Bay Elementary School principal, at 9.5 percent for $27,483;

—James Baldree, Waveland Elementary School principal, at 10 percent for $24,425;

—Garland Cuevas, district business manager, at 10 percent for $22,000;

—An eight percent raise for all staff members such as secretaries, bookkeepers, janitors and cafeteria workers.

McCullough reported increases for Cave and Baldree based on percentages is higher because they are the only two administrators with AA Certificates (a bachelor's degree) with the rest possessing AAA Certificates (a master's degree).

The higher local supplement is added to compensate for the lower state scale applicable to the pair, the superintendent explained.

Administrator pay scales are based on years of service, 'a responsibility factor,' and certification.

The superintendent said certified teacher raises range from 11.1 to 9.3 percent—a minimum of $1,000 more annually as approved by the legislature.

Teachers with an A Certificate and no experience will start at $12,475 and receive $225 for each year of experience through 14 years, he reported.

AA certified teachers will start at $13,275 and earn $300 for each year of experience through 16 years, McCullough stated.

AAA certified teachers (working toward a doctoral degree) will start at $14,075 and receive $325 for each year of experience through 17 years, he listed.

Teachers with AAAA Certificates (doctoral degree) will start at $14,875 and receive $350 for each year of experience through 17 years, the superintendent reported.

Better US-90 signals needed

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department Wednesday again cited a need for improved traffic signals along US-90 in that city.

A Waveland man died Tuesday as a result of injuries suffered in a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of US-90 and Hwy. 603 in Waveland.

The chief reported the intersection should have a delayed green signal so traffic traveling north on Nicholson and turning to the westbound lanes of US-90 could move freely as well as vehicles traveling south on Hwy. 603 and turning to the eastbound lanes of US-90.

The lack of a delayed green causes dangerous traffic pile-ups in the intersection, he noted.

Dorn asked a State Highway Department official at a recent Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting to install the delayed green at the intersection and at the US-90 and Waveland Avenue intersection where a similar traffic problem occurs.

In addition, he cited a need for traffic signals at the McLaurin Street and US-90 intersection to handle an increased amount of traffic resulting from the opening of the Choctaw Shopping Center and Cinema Four theatres.

The chief Wednesday noted all these traffic controls are desperately needed, but fears the highway department will not install proper signals until more die at those intersections.

He added the highway department has already installed several US-90 traffic control devices, such as turn signals and turning bays, which have improved safety.

Boaters urged to stay away from dredges

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Sightseeing boaters are urged to stay away from dredging operations at the deep hole in the Mississippi Sound offshore from Gulfside Methodist Assembly Center in Waveland.

Robert Boudin, Hancock County Civil Defense director, issued that warning Wednesday after receiving a report from a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers project engineer that boaters are getting too close to dredges working in the deep hole area.

The boaters are slowing the project work because operators must take additional precautions to insure no one is struck by dredging equipment, Boudin explained.

Some 25 people have drowned in the deep hole which the Corps is attempting to fill in a 45-day project and stop deaths in the area.

Waveland PD probing fatal US-90 collision

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Waveland Police Department is investigating a three-vehicle collision Tuesday at the US-90 and Hwy. 603 intersection which claimed the life of a Waveland lodge owner.

Chief Donald Dorn of the department Wednesday said Harold Dwight Fisher, 57, owner of the recently-opened Exmouth Lodge at 1905 Waveland Avenue, died Tuesday afternoon in surgery at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis as a result of multiple internal injuries suffered in the accident.

Patrolman John Wilkerson of the department, the investigating officer, Wednesday afternoon said no charges have been filed against anyone involved in the mishap.

"As far as who's at fault, it is the flatbed truck driver (Wallace Foucher II, 27, of Harvey, La.) because he apparently ran a red light. We have four witnesses and they all said the same thing," Wilkerson stated.

The patrolman said he 'couldn't tell why' charges were not filed, but Dorn earlier Wednesday speculated the investigation information would be presented to the next Hancock County Grand Jury for consideration.

Dorn reported Wilkerson's investigation indicates Fisher was turning his foreign sports car on to the US-90 westbound lanes from Nicholson Avenue when he was struck by a white flatbed truck traveling west on US-90 and driven by Foucher.

The flatbed and small car then collided with a green dump truck stopped in the southbound lane of Hwy. 603 at the intersection and driven by Clyde Daniels, 36, of Picayune.

Fisher and his car were pinned between the two trucks, police said.

Fisher's poodle PoPe was riding in the auto and was killed in the accident, the chief noted.

Maireen Daniels, a passenger in the dump truck; Clyde Daniels, her husband; and Foucher all apparently escaped injury in the mishap, the chief said.

Dorn confirmed Fisher was temporarily pinned in the vehicle, but the dump truck was pulled back allowing Mobile Medic emergency medical technicians room to extricate him.

The car was totally demolished and the trucks were damaged in the collision, Dorn noted.

Traffic on both highways was temporarily re-routed through the Choctaw Shopping Center parking lot for about one hour until the vehicles were cleared from the highway, the chief said.

He said the accident was reported to the department at 11:36 a.m.

Also responding to the accident scene were the State Highway Patrol, Waveland Fire Department, Bay St. Louis Police Department and Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Fisher's obituary notice is on Page 2A.

The Waveland lodge owner and his wife, Valerie Fisher, were the subject of a feature story in the Feb. 24 issue of The Sea Coast Echo.

They introduced the English pub concept of bed and breakfast service on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Thunderbird Keesler show to be first in three years

When the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds appear at Keesler AFB in Biloxi May 7 it will be their first appearance in this area since 1980. Also, it will be their first performance here in their new F-16 aircraft.

Keesler will celebrate Open House May 7, with gates opening to the public at 11:30 a.m. and the Thunderbirds performing at 3 p.m.

Visitors are encouraged to arrive early to view the many aircraft which will be open for inspection, witness the several demonstrations planned by base units and view the many displays by base organizations.

Refreshments and food will be available throughout the day.

While the Thunderbirds have performed in a variety of aircraft over the years, this is their first season in the F-16, a compact multi-role fighter having capabilities for both ground support missions: delivering a variety of weapons, and air to air combat capabilities exceeding anything currently in the inventory of any other nation.

Boasting a thrust of more than 25,000 pounds, the F-16 weighs in at only 22,500 pounds, more than 2,500 pounds less than its thrust. This alone speaks for the incredible power of the aircraft and its quick acceleration.

Coupled with the latest in high technology electronics and materials, a combat radius of 500 miles, and the ability to carry more than 20,450 pounds of ordnance, the F-16 is a formidable foe to any who would dare challenge it.

Moving from the T-38, flown in previous years by the team, to the F-16 has also brought the team an added mission. Previously reserved for their aerial demonstration role, the Thunderbirds are now counted as part of the Air Force's operational combat units.

Painted the traditional red, white and blue, there are no modifications to the aircraft that in any way affect the combat capability, allowing them to be quickly repainted and restored to combat configuration within 72 hours.

This ability, in crisis or wartime, would see the pilots, aircraft and maintenance and support personnel rapidly reintegrated into their combat ready unit, the 430th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Nellis AFB, Nev.

Changing their role to that of an operational, combat-ready unit, has allowed the Air Force to return seven T-38s to the Air Force inventory, which has resulted in $3.3 million an annual cost savings.

BUFORD L. LADNER

Final planting date for insurance

April 30 is the final planting date for insured corn in Hancock County, according to Joan M. McCartney, District Director for the Jackson Field Operations Office of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

"Dates of corn planted by April 30, insured by FCIC (or by a private company reinsured by FCIC), must be reported by June 10 to receive full crop insurance coverage," says McCartney.

Acres planted after April 30 must also be reported on the June 10 acreage report as being planted too late for insurance.

"Farmers unable to plant prior to April 30 because of excess moisture conditions may sign a 20-day late planting agreement which permits insurance coverage, but provides for a lower bushel-per-acre guarantee due to the late planting," McCartney explained.

Farmers wishing additional information about the new late planting agreement should contact their local, authorized crop insurance agent.

Shoreline couple planning May Christmas celebration

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A Shoreline Park couple plans to blend the Christmas spirit with the celebration of their 40th wedding anniversary in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Baudion, who live on the west side Hwy. 603 about one-half mile south of the Bayou LaCrosse bridge, have traditionally kept a decorated tree up two-three months after Christmas.

The Baudion's small tree sparkles with twinkling lights, tinsel and ornaments in their living room picture window for highway travelers and the couple to enjoy.

But this year they plan to keep the artificial tree up until their 40th wedding anniversary on May 23 when they plan to renew their vows, Carl Baudion says.

When asked why they regularly keep the tree up for several months, he replies, "Christmas has always been a special occasion for me. The type of spirit you see around Christmas, you don't see that often—so we leave the tree up."

"When our kids were small, we always left the tree up at least two or three months. We've done this since we married almost 40 years ago," Baudion states.

The quiet middle-aged couple are the parents of two adult sons and grand-children of three girls.

Irma and Carl Baudion both suffer debilitating heart conditions and lost their home with all possessions in Hurricane Camille in 1969—just two years after building their Shoreline home.

But they rebuilt their modest home where they plan to stay and care for Irma Baudion's mother who lives with them.

Irma Baudion is a former restaurantier and Carl Baudion was a union carpenter, both originally of Metairie, La.

In spite of their difficulties, they maintain positive attitudes which seem strengthened by the presence of the little Christmas tree.

Carl Baudion states, "To me

Christmas and our tree seem to put a little more life in me."

He feels the "dollar or two" they spend to keep the tree lights lit for several months is a worthwhile investment in happiness.

"All my life a just loved to see

Christmas decorations which always seem to improve the spirit in our home," Baudion reports.

"People always ask when we're going to take the tree down and I tell them, I enjoy it," he says.

"Some people say I'm too lazy to take down my decorations and I again say, I enjoy them," he states.

"Other people stop and ask us if we leave the tree up because someone in our family is away in the service," he adds.

The Shoreline man fondly recalls

"when they were younger" they would extensively decorate their home inside and out complete with a Santa Claus with sleigh and reindeer on the rooftop.

Irma Baudion, who is quiet throughout the interview, adds regarding their 40-year Christmas tradition,

"We've been doing this for 40 years, there's no need to change now."

40-YEAR TRADITION—Standing near their Christmas tree are Irma and Carl Baudion of Hwy. 603 in Shoreline Park. The couple for the last 40 years annually leave up Christmas decorations for two-three months. But this year the Baudions will leave their Christmas tree up until May 23 when they plan to celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Library Friends plan Grand Finale

A Grand Finale sponsored by Friends of the Library is planned for Thursday, May 5 beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the Main Branch Library in Bay St. Louis and guests and members are asked to use the Ulman Street entrance.

Top honors are to be awarded two persons who have given unstintingly of their time and talent during the 1982-83 season.

Beautiful Activist Plaques will be awarded Olive McKenna who has arranged the season's musical programs, and Gail Thames who is responsible for the attractive floral arrangements which were scheduled for the year.

Honorable Rubie J. Griffin will make the presentation. McKenna and Thames will distribute Certificates of Appreciation to several persons who have contributed to the success of the programs.

Some of the persons scheduled to appear during the March meeting which was cancelled because of severe weather conditions, will appear on the program and include Carl Baldenhofer who will show art examples and discuss techniques in painting. As is the custom, there will be no regular monthly meetings of Friends of the Library during June, July and August.

Summer activities on a volunteer basis will be concentrated on planning programs, displays and activities for the 1983-84 season which begins in September 1983.

Among the projects this summer will be improvements to be made in the Rare Book Room. This will require some research as well as cataloging and book mending.

Only minor changes are to be made during the 1983-84 season.

Joe Pilet will continue for another year as over-all coordinator; Martha Van Peski will coordinate membership and telephone committees; Doris Corrio will serve as treasurer, accepting dues and donations which will be deposited by the library staff member, Mr. Garrison who makes all disbursements.

Olive McKenna will continue to arrange all musical programs, and Gail Thames will chair the floral committee.

The coordinator said: "Our objections are to be of assistance when and where needed in our three libraries; to introduce talent and provide a wide variety of programs on a monthly basis; and to use our funds toward supplies, equipment and sundry things needed for the libraries."

"We can use volunteers who can type, make phone calls, or assist the library staff when needed," Pilet added, and explained the volunteers should leave their names and qualifications at the library's main branch.

Mental Retardation

It shouldn't be ignored!

For many years it was. During the past 25 years, a strategic course devoted to ensuring mentally retarded children and adults equal human rights and services has been pursued by the National Association for Retarded Citizens.

PKU screening, infant care training, preschool programs, special education classes, vocational counseling and on-the-job training for mentally retarded individuals exist today because of the efforts of more than a quarter of a million volunteers.

Research into the causes and elimination of preventable cases of mental retardation are also goals of the more than 1700 state and local units. Lead poisoning, malnutrition and improper prenatal care have been singled out as contributing factors to mental retardation. Using the knowledge we now have, approximately one-half of the new incidents of mental retardation each year are preventable.

Our attitude about mentally retarded people has changed too. We've learned what others already knew—that given a chance, mentally retarded citizens can lead productive lives and contribute substantially to their communities.

The labor has been painstaking. The results are worth the commitment.

Mass media important part of policy making process

By WILL NORTON
Professor of Journalism
The University of Mississippi

The following article resulted from a grant made by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author and not those of either organization.

"This whole thing about the flag makes me furious," a senior journalism major told a professor last week during a journalism class. "The newspapers are making it an issue."

Some black and many white students agreed with her assessment of the controversy that surrounded use of the Confederate flag as a symbol at The University.

"The way it sounds in the newspapers, this is the only racist university in the state," a black student said during another class.

For several weeks the 20th anniversary of the Meredith enrollment at Ole Miss and the refusal of a black cheerleader to wave the Rebel flag, kept Ole Miss in the news nationally and regionally.

These events were discouraging to many of us who have watched the progress of race relations at The University of Mississippi.

But they were great examples of the place of the mass media in society. In more recent months political candidates have dominated the news, and analysts have described and evaluated the political performance of various political candidates.

Clearly, the media influence all our lives and raise implications for modern society. Mass media scholars have noted two important points.

First, the mass media give rise to activities for the manipulation of symbols. In other words, the mass media generate activities which did not exist before newspapers, radio, TV.

For example, before the media existed a political candidate would not have to hire a media man in order to get elected, but in this era a media specialist is essential for every political aspirant.

Use of the media may differ from one candidate to another, depending on the candidate's situation. Jamie Whitten has many years of service in Congress and is well known in Mississippi. As a result he usually does not require as much media as an unknown candidate.

Mike Sturdivant, a Delta planter who is entering his first political race, has used a heavy media campaign to present himself to Mississippians. His commercial spots have been designed to show him as a man with a strong record of public service, a solid family man, a progressive in race relations, and someone who can identify with the common man.

Obviously, specialists in our society can package and distribute an image of a man for mass consumption. William Randolph Hearst heard of a young Southern Baptist evangelist who was conducting a revival campaign in Los Angeles.

"Puff Graham," he told his colleagues after a brief investigation of the evangelist. Today the Rev. Billy Graham is a household name. He has preached to more people than any man in history, and the Graham Evangelistic Association has an organization that is well equipped to use the media for its purposes. A second implication for modern society is that the mass media enable organizations or persons to bypass communication channels and authority structures.

Last December when the Clarion-Ledger did saturation reporting of Gov. William Winter's special session of the legislature, many legislators changed their positions. A majority had apparently gone to Jackson with the intention of voting down the governor's education program.

Unfortunately for some of the legislators, the Clarion-Ledger took the special session seriously and reported each legislator's vote on various bills. Many of those opposed to the governor's proposal caved in.

Although they made many changes, essentially the governor got his way. The Clarion-Ledger reporting had enabled him to by-pass the legislators' authority and communicate directly with the public.

Incidentally, the Clarion-Ledger last week was selected for the 1983 Pulitzer Prize in Community Service for that reporting effort.

The opportunity to by-pass lines of authority may be detrimental to the welfare of a community. A poor administrator who knows how to manipulate the media may stay in power, or a good legislator may not be able to handle the media and get voted out of office.

Nonetheless, recent events reinforce what media scholars have said for many years. The mass media are a reality of modern society. They are an important part of the public policy making process.

BIRTHDAY/GAMES PARTY

Celebrating their birthdays (March and April) at this party were: Mesdames Denise Green, Anna May Ladner, Esther Travira, Esther Gauthreaux, Loans Spence, and Ethel Dornan.

Edmond Fahy, Funeral Home presented each celebrant with a cash gift. Thanks to them and Happy Birthday to our seniors.

We also want to thank Peoples Federal Savings and Loan for the beautiful cake they furnished for our party.

Prizes help make a party a lot of fun. We are fortunate that we have so many organizations and merchants who provide these for us.

The American Legion of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the DAV No. 50 provide cash prizes.

The Eatery and Danny's Fried Chicken provide dinners.

Our regular volunteers for this event are Cyril Reeses, the Les Galivans, the Frank Geracis. We sure do appreciate their help.

PAST EVENTS
Many of our seniors took advantage of the show at the Night Gallery and the snacks provided by De-Alina. She opened early one evening especially for them and had reduced rates plus free egg rolls. Thanks.

Our Singing Seniors entertained at a conference I was attending at Gulf Park—Mississippi Gerontological Society. They were greatly appreciated and I certainly was proud of them.

RSVP took a bus load of volunteers to Jackson where they were honored at a luncheon. Most of these volunteers do work for us at the Center and we were so pleased that RSVP wrote their efforts up as they surely deserve our thanks.

We also continue to receive doughnuts daily from Honey Cream. That sure helps our snacks! Thanks to them we have a lovely variety daily and can also send some home to our sick and disabled elderly.

National's Bakery in Waveland provides us with cakes for our afternoon snacks and we appreciate this very much too. We are fortunate to have Mr. Carl Baldenhofer in charge of this project. Thanks Carl!

COMING EVENTS

We have cancelled our spring Bazaar as we will be assisting RSVP celebrate their 18th birthday at the Wave Pool May 27. We are all looking forward to a super party! Theresa, Lucille, and Charles really know how to give a party!

Our next Birthday/Games day will be June 27. Be sure to mark it on your calendar.

May is Senior Citizen Month and is celebrated nationally. Be on the look out for lots of special things for seniors.

We had planned several trips to the mall in Biloxi for this month, but I don't think our buses will take it. We may try later.

Have a happy, healthy month and celebrate by getting a little exercise. Everything I read now about senior citizens says that is the thing that will most help you age gracefully!!

Blind man's walkathon

No capping or shelving for him

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Averaging from 20 to 23 miles of walking four to six days a week, Rosendo Rodriguez, 42, a blind ex-Marine and his dog guide, Nardo, whose public name is EGBOK (Everything's Gonna Be Okay), are on a coast-to-coast one-man walkathon.

Rodriguez, who stopped in Waveland for lunch said, "I'm doing this to demonstrate to all the world the untapped abilities and often unexpected capabilities of the disabled."

Rodriguez doesn't believe in the word 'handicapped,' he believes it should be 'handicapable.'

"When something is 'capped' you put a cover on it and store it away on a shelf somewhere. I don't want anyone to put a cap on me and store me away on a shelf," he said.

Rodriguez, a resident of Gardena, Calif., started his walking trip from the waters edge at Neptune Beach, Fla. after sunrise services on Easter morning. His destination is the Redondo Beach Pier in California hoping to be there on Aug. 6.

A Viet Nam veteran who came home without any injuries, Rodriguez was mistakenly shot in the face five years ago by two gang members who were looking for someone else named "Joe" whose truck resembled his.

Doctors estimate there are more than 130 shotgun pellets left in his brain. Those doctors saved his life, but not his eyesight.

"Medically speaking I'm supposed to be dead or spend the rest of my life in a hospital bed full of tubes," said Rodriguez. "However, the doctors that say that never asked the Big Boss upstairs."

"When you lose your eyesight," said Rodriguez, "you learn to accept it and then to reinforce your other capabilities."

"The mind is an amazing thing, a thought is the fastest thing in creation. A person can imagine seeing a star and be there in an instant," said Rodriguez.

Rodriguez believes in mental telepathy and says he sees and feels things with his mind that other people can't see.

He also believes that everyone has these mental powers but that they don't utilize them.

He said his mind was functioning while he was under the anesthetic following the shooting. "While I was on the operating table I could see and hear the doctors talking around me. I saw myself laying there. I saw my body floating away down a long tunnel. As I approached the end of the tunnel I saw a bright bluish white light and experienced a more wonderful feeling of inner peace than I have ever known."

"I heard a doctor say, 'He's gone,' and another answer, 'No keep going.' Then I felt myself being drawn back into my body. I then heard a voice say, 'It's not his time yet.'"

"I will know when my time comes, I will feel it and I won't be afraid," said Rodriguez.

Pete Alexandra is accompanying Rodriguez as the driver of a specially outfitted motorhome which follows along approximately twenty-five feet behind the walkers.

They are taking a route along roads running parallel to Interstate 10.

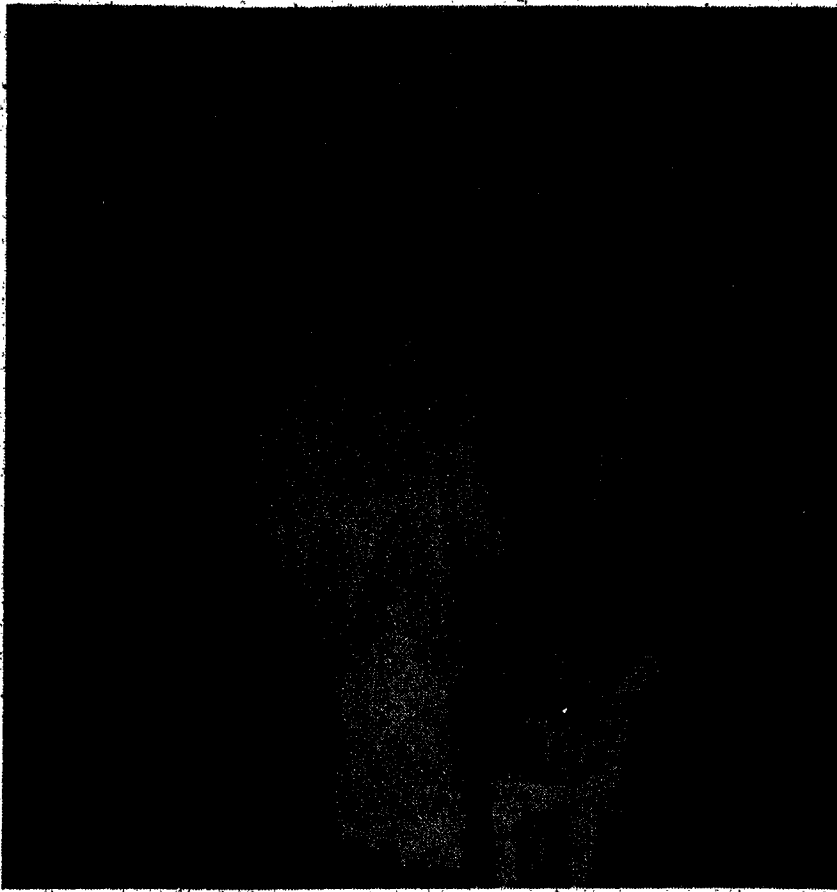

Rodriguez and Nardo begin walking at 5 a.m. each day, stop for lunch after about 5 or 6 hours and begin walking again at 2 p.m. to continue until 7 p.m.

When they cross the desert they will walk at night to avoid the heat.

Rodriguez wants it to be thoroughly understood that the "walk" is not in any way a profit-making venture for himself. His own monthly income is used to meet bare minimum expenses for himself and Nardo.

He is making this trip to prove that the handicapped don't have to just sit around and feel sorry for themselves. He feels strongly about the handicapped being capable and wants to prove it.

The Gardena Lions Club, of which both Rodriguez and Alexandra are members, bought the motorhome for the trip. They are selling raffle tickets for the motorhome to pay for it. The drawing for the home will take place at the end of the trip.

WALKIN' IN THE RAIN—Actions speak louder than words and to prove a point, Rosendo Rodriguez and his dog Nardo, publicly known as EGBOK (everything's gonna be OK), pass through Waveland on US-90 on walking marathon from Florida to California, Coast-to-Coast to prove that the handicapped are handicapped. Rodriguez's walk is called Walk-for-Awareness. He wants people to be aware of the fact that the handicapped are quite able to take care of themselves.

Restrictions on pesticides are still in effect

Farmers who plan conservation acreage in the payment-in-kind (PIK) program are being advised that the land is still subject to pesticide restrictions set by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The restrictions apply even though nothing in the land diversion programs directly addresses pesticide use other than that herbicides may be used to control weeds.

Ruth Morgan, Assistant pesticide coordinator for the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said conservation use acreage should be regarded as cropland subject to the restrictions since it likely will be used in the future to grow crops.

Morgan said EPA is concerned that growers taking part in PIK and related programs may apply pesticides on conservation use acreage that may produce harmful residues in farm products.

"Some pesticides could affect the pesticide residues in a crop being grazed or converted to hay or in subsequent crops planted on the conservation use acreage," she said.

The pesticides could contribute to illegal residues or levels in raw agricultural commodities, including meat, meat by-products, eggs or milk.

To be eligible for commodity payments in the PIK program, farmers are required to take land out of normal crop production. Some may be converted to conservation use by planting soil-improving crops such as clovers and grasses.

Weed and erosion control practices must be carried out on conservation acreage, and the land must be planted to a cover crop or be left with previous crop residue on the soil to protect against soil erosion.

Morgan said conservation use acreage should be considered as idle cropland even if only crop residue from a previous crop remains without a vegetative cover.

"Acreage should be regarded as non-cropland only if it is changed permanently to a non-crop use," she said.

Non-cropland uses would allow application of chemicals at rates which could adversely affect crops later planted on the acreage, or cause illegal residues in agricultural commodities.

Non-cropland includes areas such as forests, ditchbanks, ponds and other agricultural sites which are not intended for crop production.

Morgan said EPA will allow the following labeled uses of pesticides in fields containing crop residue from a previous crop on the soil surface where no cover crop is planted:

— pesticides registered for fallow applications where no crops are to be planted.

— pesticides registered for minimum tillage or no-tillage application before planting a subsequent crop.

— pesticides registered for use on crops whose residue is present as if the residue were growing. For example, on corn residue any pesticide registered for use on corn may be applied.

— pesticides registered for use on subsequent crops to be planted on the conservation use acreage.

— pesticides not registered for existing residue or subsequent crops, but whose label does not prohibit rotation to the subsequent crop.

"In all cases, application must be made according to label use directions, precautions, limitations and restrictions," Morgan said.

Applications on crops such as wheat or cover crops that may be grazed or cut for hay also must follow the specific use directions and restrictions for the crop.

Pesticide application for crops used for conservation should follow registered label use as if the crops were harvested in the usual manner, Morgan said.

CRAWFISH LEAVING DITCHBANKS

Mississippi crawfish are leaving their old ditchbank haunts and invading more sophisticated habitats—even gourmet kitchens.

They never had it so good! And instead of just putting the pinch on an overly curious youngster's bare toe or finger, today's bigger and redder versions are getting a few good licks on a growing number of Mississippians' taste buds.

Their elevated status came in this state on the heels of the 1973 Delta flood as local folks took advantage of an opportunity learned from Louisiana crawfish fanciers and began netting the healthy deep red specimens left behind as the floodwaters receded.

Almost overnight people began to sing the merits of crawfish, or crawdads, or crayfish, or mudbugs, or miniature lobsters, or whatever.

Wheeler Timbs, a Sunflower county farmer, hadn't forgotten the post-flood crawfish experiences as he sat in a Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation-sponsored commodity conference in February, 1979, and listened to a Louisiana crawfish producer tell of the industry that budded in that state about 20 years ago, and which today comprises about 20,000 acres involved in commercial crawfish production.

Shortly, Timbs and a farmer-neighbor, Joe Evans, visited LSU's Cooperative Extension Service specialists to talk crawfish and to visit ponds in that state. Other Mississippi farmers were soon to follow suit—among them

Washington county farmer Gene Allen Clements who today is president of this state's fledgling Mississippi Crawfish Growers' Association.

Today there are over 50 producer members of the association who share information on cultural practices. At first the Mississippi growers were interested in crawfish to double-crop on their already flooded rice fields. But they found it wasn't that easy. In fact, it is not easy at all, for crawfish are very demanding in the oxygen content of their water—or, in fact, for the whole water quality bit. If they don't like it they will crawl, walk or swim off. Also, when you stock a shallow pond with water about 18 inches deep with between 500 and 1,000 adult crawfish per acre, you've got a bunch of eager eaters that consume no small quantity of decaying organic matter. Most producers feed their crawfish by dumping bales of decaying rice stubble in the ponds. The feed disappears surprisingly fast.

Crawfish growers produce one crop a year in their ponds with an average production at present estimated at about 500 pounds per acre. Both Clements and Timbs have their own processing plants and retail outlets, and have developed local clientele that pay over a dollar pound for the live, whole crawfish.

Clements' facility on his farm just south of Greenville is where customers can buy fresh or boiled crawfish, or if they prefer, Clements will cater large cook-outs with a large portable cooker. At times he finds demand running ahead of supply, but he cautions would-be crawfish growers that crawfish farming is no lark. It demands extensive labor particularly at harvest time.

And the crop must be trapped with real bait, such as catfish heads from the processing plants nearby, on a rigid economic schedule that demands around-the-clock attention.

It simply doesn't work to try to use regular farm labor for a specialized crawfish operation, he finds.

While this state's crawfish pond expansion has grown to somewhere between 500 and 700 acres, Clements emphasizes that the culture is far different in Mississippi than it is in Louisiana. This is due to variances in soil, water and climate—and accordingly, the local industry is hungry for research.

Still, a lot of Mississippi crawfish already have made a favorable and profitable transition from ditch banks to carefully designed and controlled ponds. And come Saturday, May 7, Moorhead, Mississippi, will celebrate its first crawfish festival in the heart of the crawfish country.

A SUDDEN TWIST

Yes, a sudden twist or jer can force a sudden twist out of place. This narrows the nerve openings between the spinal bones, causing the nerve being pinched in the neck or back. When this occurs, and when the pinched nerve supply becomes alerted for these severe amount of nerve energy, they will malfunction, creating pain and disease in other areas of the body. Take the case of a boy who, when he was 10 years old, lost his hearing and later regained it when he suddenly passed and felt a pop in his neck. Or the case of a man who became ill in his stomach and after months of suffering, decided to try Chiropractic. We found a spinal problem pinching the nerve supply to his stomach. With our care, he recovered. Chiropractic may aid you to regain your good health too—only with.

INTERSECTION COLLISION—Preparing to place Dwight Fisher of Waveland in an ambulance just after he was involved in a Tuesday collision at the intersection of US-90 and Hwy. 603 are Mobile Medic emergency medical technicians and City Fire Department. Fisher died later that day in surgery at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis as a result of multiple injuries suffered in the wreck in which two trucks smashed his small sports car, Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department reported Wednesday. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

For many Southerners, fresh okra means a heaping platter of crispier-than-crisp fried slices of that tasty vegetable, and that's just about my favorite way to enjoy okra.

I slice the okra in thin circles, about a quarter-inch, then fry it, usually, though at times I like to fry the youngest, tender pods whole. Try it sometime. And, incidentally, French fried okra is a tasty tidbit for the cocktail tray... you may even fry it ahead, then re-crisp it in the oven just before serving.

Speaking of fried okra, there are as many versions, I suppose, as there are cooks a-frying. Some dredge the slices in flour — I prefer cornmeal. Some use a mixture of the two. Some dip the slices in beaten egg, others in an egg-milk batter before dredging in the flour or cornmeal.

Fried this way, okra has a definite oyster taste — that's why fried okra slices are also known as "Okra Oysters," and are often served with tartar sauce or hot sauces. Here's:

OKRA OYSTERS

1 lb. small okra
1 egg
Approximately ¼ cup or less of milk, enough to make a batter

Cup or so of cornmeal, as needed
Pepper, Cayenne pepper as desired

Salt, optional
Wash okra and drain well, discard tip and stem end, cut okra into quarter-inch or wider slices, as you wish. Dip in the egg-milk mixture, then dredge in the cornmeal (seasoned with the pepper and salt, if you wish).

Refrigerate for at least an hour to ensure that the coating stays on the okra when you cook it. Deep fry in hot oil until golden brown, taking care not to crowd the slices in the pan. Drain on paper towels, and serve. (Four to six servings).

If you've any okra left over — uncooked — slice it up and combine it with fresh or canned corn and some cut up tomatoes, along with a chopped onion and a chopped green pepper, and jazz it up with pepper and hot sauce.

Bring the whole business to a boil, then cover and reduce the heat. Simmer for a half hour or a bit longer, stirring from time to time, an excellent side dish.

Sunny messengers of color cheer up the spring garden

Marigolds are the sunny messengers of good cheer in the summer garden. Now the favorite summer flower, it's a small wonder because this versatile plant is highly resistant to pollution and smog, and tolerant of a wide range of soil and weather conditions. Few flowers provide so many blossoms through summer and fall.

Not originally. These wonders of the modern garden were insignificant little weeds from the New World, but modern hybridizers caused the marigold to blossom into an array of good garden plants.

Don't be misled by the name African marigolds. They started with an American species, "Tagetes erecta," and in early development were generally large flowered, free blooming plants of some size.

Modern breeders have substantially reduced plant size while retaining the large flowers. Now there are many large-flowered hybrids with a compact growth habit. Many of these also bloom earlier than their taller counterparts. And many of the taller African marigold varieties have flowers with long stems which made good cut flowers.

French marigolds are also American. They were bred from Tagetes patula. These mighty midgets are fairly uniform in plant size with numerous early blooms. Many hybrids have been created by crossing plants within this species. A third major kind of marigold has been developed in recent years, hybrids known as triploids. The triploids have been developed by crossing African marigolds with French marigolds. The result in these mules (somewhat like crossing a horse with a donkey) is flowers up to 50 percent larger than those of French marigolds, a very early blooming habit with a strong free-flowering ability that lasts all summer.

Many of the new marigold varieties are triploids including 'Encore,' new this year from Ball Seed Co., which bears primrose yellow flowers on plants which reach 10 to 12 inches in height and spread.

Two good examples of new, compact French marigolds are 'Bonanza Yellow,' from Denholm Seed Co., sporting clear yellow flowers on plants of 10 to 12 inches. Also new from Denholm is "Torch," a striking combination of gold and red. "Torch" was recognized for its quality by a highly prized Fleuroselect award, the European counterpart of All American Selections.

The taller varieties of African marigolds are always spring planted because it takes longer for them to reach their peak performance but the compact Africans, the French marigolds, and triploid hybrids can be planted as late as midsummer and still provide a good season of garden color.

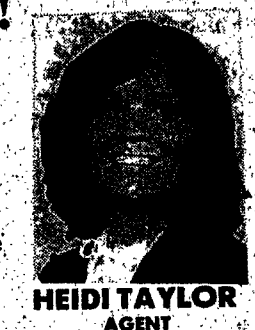

Marigolds can be seeded directly in the soil outdoors, but for early bloom they should be started indoors. They germinate best at 70° F. Sow on a good starting mix but do not cover. They germinate best in light. Water thoroughly, then cover with clear plastic to keep the humidity high and place in bright light but not direct sunlight. When seeds have germinated, remove the plastic and grow in direct sunlight. Transplant into pots or cell packs when the first true leaves have formed.

Necaise seeks superintendent of education slot

Barney R. Necaise of Rocky Hill, Bay St. Louis Junior High coach and teacher, has announced his candidacy for superintendent of Hancock County Schools.

Necaise graduated from Hancock North Central with honors in 1960.

He was elected vice-president and selected as salutatorian of his graduating class. He was also a member of the 1960 state championship basketball team.

Necaise received an associate degree from Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville in 1962.

He was a member of the Pearl River Wildcats basketball team in 1961 and 1962 and received his bachelor of science degree from University of Southern Mississippi in 1964.

Necaise has 18 years of teaching and coaching experience.

He was a teacher at Chalmette High School in Louisiana for five years and was elected vice-president of the Driver Education Program of Louisiana in 1967-68. He was a teacher and coach in the Picayune School District for four years and has been teaching and coaching basketball at Bay St. Louis Junior High for the last 11 years.

He was recipient of conference coach of the year award for three years.

Necaise is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavender Necaise of Rocky Hill. He has one child, a daughter, Pamela DeAnn Necaise who is employed with Global Associates, Michoud Facilities in New Orleans, La.

As superintendent, Necaise said, he wants to improve the educational curriculum, promote quality education, and improve the conditions of the school facilities so that the children of Hancock County can be stimulated much more toward their educational goals.

"I would like to improve the

relationship between the administration, teachers and parents and also would like to see the teachers receive more financial and moral support from the public because teachers are the backbone of our children's success in the educational world of the future," the candidate added.

"A superintendent, being the head of a school district, has to make many important decisions as well as help to unite, instill pride, and promote integrity with the schools and community," he said.

"When selecting your next superintendent of education please consider Barney R. Necaise, an energetic individual who will strive to make Hancock County Schools a great foundation so that your children can be proud and achieve success in their endeavors," he stated.

Owners of unclaimed funds being sought by State Treasurer

On May 5, Bill Cole, state treasurer will release a publication with the names of over 3,500 persons due to recover over $3 million worth of unclaimed or abandoned funds.

The list of names will be distributed in a special insert in the May 5 edition of this newspaper.

The state treasury office has received reports of over $3 million in unclaimed funds in the State of Mississippi.

In an attempt to locate the rightful owners two steps were taken. First, a notice was mailed to every name for which an address existed. The publication of the list in local newspapers is the second step as provided by the law.

"We have very few addresses and have been able to locate owners for a little over $100,000 so far. Hopefully, the publication of names will succeed in locating the majority of the owners or heirs to the funds," Cole said.

Treasurer Cole indicated that accounts ranged from several dollars to over $11,000. The publication will list the names and last known ad-resses of persons possibly entitled to unclaimed funds. Also, the publication will provide a form that can be filled out and returned to the State Treasurer requesting information about the institution holding the funds.

People have until Aug. 1 to claim the funds directly from the institution currently holding the funds. After that date claims must be filed with the State Treasurer's Office because all unclaimed funds held by the various institutions will be turned over to the Treasury Department. "Some of the persons listed are deceased and their heirs are unaware of these funds."

"The purpose of the law, when recommended to the Legislature, was to provide a means to locate all unclaimed funds in Mississippi and to afford the people a means of determining whether or not they are entitled to unclaimed funds by checking with one source," Cole said.

Lee Klein at end for Black and Gold

Hancock County's only representative on the 1983 Golden Eagles football squad, former Rock-A-Chaw Lee Klein, is expected to see action at defensive end when Black and Gold teams line up Saturday in USM's annual spring intrasquad game.

Kickoff is slated for 1:30 p.m. at Roberts Stadium in Hattiesburg.

Eagle head coach Jim Carmody this week described Klein as a "tough, hard-nosed competitor, a very intense athlete."

Carmody said Klein worked at tight end earlier in spring training and has shifted back to defensive end for Saturday's intrasquad game.

He is the son of Judge and Mrs. Lee Klein Sr. of Clermont Harbor and a third year sophomore at Southern.

Klein saw action in three Eagle contests during the 1982 season, and was selected as most valuable player on defense at St. Stanislaus under coach Barry Jones in 1980.

When the Black and Gold teams line up for Saturday's game it will be, in one sense, television against newspaper.

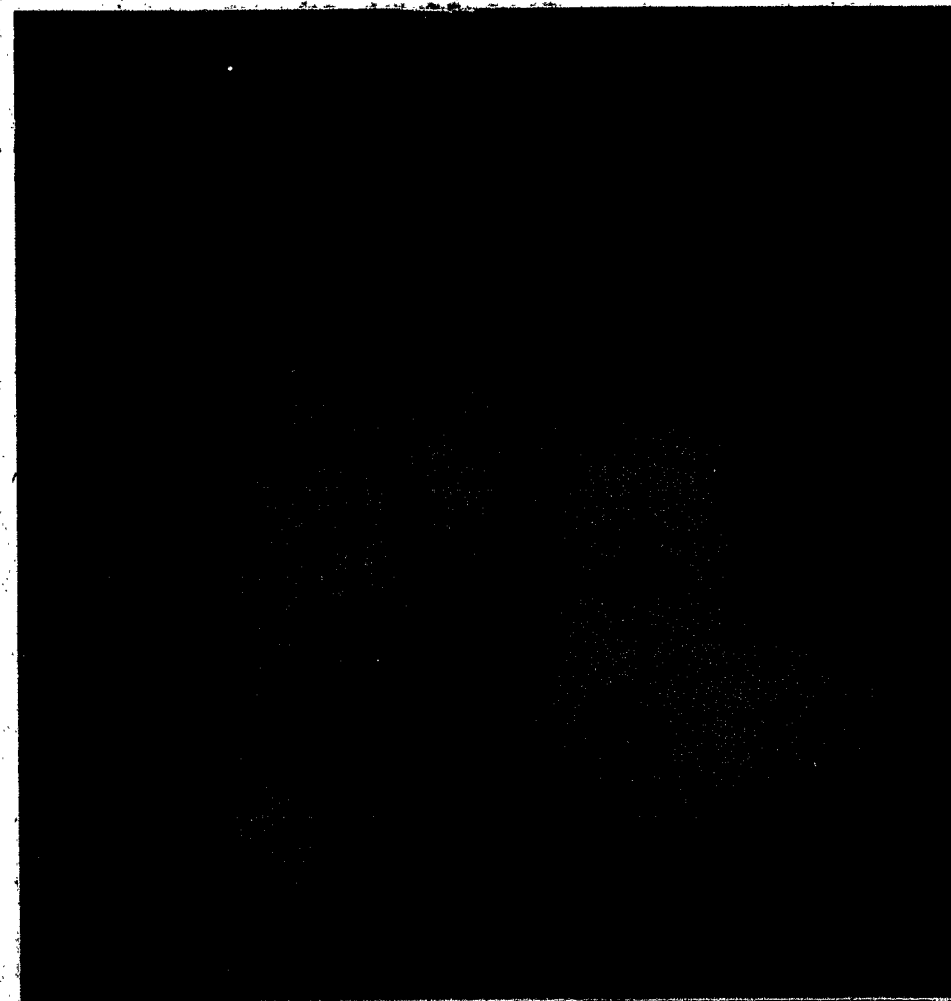

Actually it will be Jackson Daily News sports editor Orley Hood against Biloxi station WLOX-TV sports director

A.J. Giardina as honorary coaches for the "family feud" that will conclude spring practice.

Carmody initiated a plan of having media representatives as honorary coaches last year when Jackson Clarion Ledger sports editor Paul Borden "bested" Hattiesburg American sports editor Chuck Abadie in one sense and lost in another.

Each honorary coach is permitted to insert one "trick play" into his team's offensive game plan. Last year, Borden's play worked for yardage and Abadie's backfired.

Mary Carter takes championship

The big news in Bay Area soccer is the success of Mary Carter Paints in the District IV Playdowns in the Under 12 Division in Ocean Springs last weekend.

Mary Carter Paints is the new District IV Champion and will be representing BASC in Vicksburg on May 7-8.

According to Coach Waddy LeBourgeois, "It was a total team effort."

On Saturday Mary Carter Paints easily downed the Biloxi No. 1 team 5-1 with Scott Heitzmann getting all five goals.

Then on Sunday in the semifinals again it was Scott Heitzmann's goal which earned the home team a 1-0 victory over the South Mississippi Soccer Club No. 2 team.

In finals against the No. 1 SMSC team Mary Carter Paints culminated their march to the title with a 4-0 decision with goals scored by Richie Redditt, Terry LeBourgeois, Scott Heitzmann and Richard Gleber (his first of the year).

David Seizeneau and Terry LeBourgeois controlled the center of the field and passing the ball through the opposing fullbacks.

The stalwart defense of Kevin Edwards and Robert Duvernay (who played throughout with an injured foot), and the superb goalkeeping of Bert Dean the opposition hardly ever was able to mount any sort of attack.

BASC extends its congratulations to Mary Carter Paints and hopes that the community will support this team at Vicksburg.

BASC also was ably represented in this Playdown by Dr. Murphree, D.D.S. which due to the luck of the draw had to face SMSC No. 1 on Saturday after already having played a tough game.

In the opening round Dr. Murphree, D.D.S. faced the Ocean Springs No. 2 team and appeared to have a 1-0 decision in its pocket.

However, Ocean Springs tied the game within the last minute of play.

In the overtime period Ocean Springs scored two quick goals, but Dr. Murphree, D.D.S. came back to score three goals of their own to eke out a 4-3 decision.

Such a comeback shows the character that soccer is developing in our young people.

A tired, but gritty home team then played SMSC No. 1 and still managed to dominate the game most of the time.

But the shots were just off as Dr. Murphree, D.D.S. had approximately 18 shots which just missed the net.

The final score was 4-1 with Joel Duncan's goal averting the shutout, but opposing coach Al Mayeu was thankful that he was playing a tired team and complimented Dr. Murphree, D.D.S. for their play.

Locally the District IV Under-8 Division Playdowns were played at Bay High School.

In the opening round the Biloxi No. 2 team on a breakaway goal late in the game edged past Kern Optical, SMSC No. 3 team, 1-0.

Meanwhile, the home team Coca Cola "Eagles" ran into a buzz-saw in the form of Century 21 "Cosmos," the SMSC No. 2 team, and lost 3-0.

In the quarterfinals the SMSC No. 1 team, Snelling "Cowboys" shellacked the Biloxi No. 2 team 7-0.

The Singing River Soccer Club No. 1 "Raiders" downed the Ocean Springs No. 2 "Red Devils" and the Ocean Springs No. 1 "Battlestars" downed the Cosmos 4-0.

In the last quarterfinal game the BASC Purple Knights got by the Biloxi No. 1 team 2-0.

In the semifinals the Cowboys swept past the Raiders 5-0 as the Raiders were unable to clear their own end of the field.

The pride of BASC Purple Knights tackled the Battlestars in a valiant effort which fell short 4-2, although the first goal was disputed.

In the finals the Battlestars, clearly the class of the Playdowns, topped the Cowboys 3-1. The Cowboys got their consolation goal just prior to the final whistle.

The Battlestars and coach Dick Busby are to be commended for their fine play, as the players showed a poise, skill and knowledge of the game seldom seen even in the Under 12 Division.

BASC congratulates the Battlestars and wishes them well at Vicksburg. In the consolation game the Purple Knights redeemed their pride by defeating the Raiders 3-0.

Richard Watson, Beau Schindler and James Berry provided the scoring punch.

Congratulations are in order for Debra Berry and Roselin Watson for the fine job they did with these young people in their coaching debut. BASC hopes to see them back next year.

In other Playdown action the Sea Coast Echo "Panthers" played a round-robin tournament against teams from Ocean Springs, Biloxi and Gulfport in the Under 12 Girls Division.

Coach Harriet Bellone really had her team well-prepared for this competition as the Panthers, despite their regular season dismal record, won one, tied one and lost one.

The loss was on Saturday to the Ocean Springs No. 2 team. At the end of the first half the Ocean Springs coach was running scared as the Panthers were not the same team he had played the week before.

Then on Sunday with the opening game jitters out of the way the Panthers settled down to play even better.

Against Gulfport the teams started in slow motion with Gulfport scoring first. However, the Panthers came back on a goal by Jenie Carver to tie the game, and completely dominated the rest of the game.

In the finale against Biloxi the Panthers kept the pressure on and didn't allow Biloxi into their end of the field.

Jenie Carver got one goal and Ginger Cagle scored the second one on a 25 yard blast into the wind just under the crossbar.

Stacy O'Brien played well in goal on Sunday, and got no action to speak of against Biloxi.

"The entire team played outstandingly!" said a pleasantly surprised Coach Bellone. The Panthers just missed making the State Playdowns, as the two Ocean Springs teams won their three games each.

Finally, Gulf Coast Waste wound up their preparations for their Playdown date by playing a Slidell Select "B" team.

Gulf Coast Waste only had ten players, but played even with the Slidell team, losing a squeaker 4-3.

This weekend Gulf Coast Waste will be in Pascagoula for the Under-14 District IV Playdowns.

If these teams represent

BASC as well as those who have already played, there may be one or two more BASC teams going to Vicksburg on May 7-8! Let's all cheer on these young people who are representing our community.

BASC wishes to thank all those volunteers who made the Under-8 Playdowns such a success, especially Coordinators Paul Montjoy and Joann Duncan, Head Referee Tom Demboski, sponsors Hancock Bank and Coca Cola.

After the heavy rains of Friday it took a lot of effort to have the fields ready for play by 11 a.m. on Saturday and get all the games in successfully.

The spectators, players and coaches had a good time and saw some excellent soccer thanks to the efforts of these BASC volunteers.

In the only Girls' game of the Under-8 Playdowns the SMSC Hurricanes defeated the Covington Wildcats 2-0 on Sunday.

Wildcats bow to Bulldogs in season finale

Doug Borries, pitching after only one day of rest, fashioned a four-hitter here last Thursday to lead Gulf Coast Junior College to a 3-1 win over Pearl River College in a one-game playoff to determine the South Division district championship.

In a nine-inning game to determine which team will represent the district against Hinds in the South Division playoffs, Gulf Coast tagged losing pitcher Mike Herndon for five singles and all three of its runs in the second inning.

Pearl River's lone run came in the top half of the second right field fence with a solo home run blast.

Other than the second inning when all of the runs were scored, the two arch-rivals only managed a combined total of five hits off the two respective ace hurlers.

Thursday's heart-breaking loss for Pearl River marked the second year in a row that the Wildcats have been stopped by the Bulldogs in a winner-take-all, nine-inning game.

Gulf Coast's second-inning rally was staged after Herndon had retired two men in the inning.

The Wildcats, hoping to ruin the Bulldogs' unblemished reign as the perennial district power, finished the year with a 32-12 overall record, while the 36-11 Bulldogs will now advance to play Hinds Junior College in a best-of-three series to decide the South Division crown.

LADY WILDCATS

Pearl River College's Lady Wildcats were eliminated from the state junior college softball tournament in Meridian Friday when Northeast came from behind to win 6-1 and then Meridian took a 11-1 decision.

Melinda Stringer, PRC's short-fielder from West Marion High School and Martha Jahnke, the Lady Cats' pitcher from Petal, were named to the 1983 All-State team.

PRC wound up with a 5-13 overall ledger and a fourth place finish in the South Division.

USM women complete first fast-pitch softball season

Southern Mississippi's women's softball team recently completed its 1983 season. The Lady Eagles, under fourth-year head coach Laura Porciello, finished with a 7-9 record in their first season of playing the fast-pitch version of the game.

The previous three seasons the Lady Eagles were in the AIAW, which recognizes the slow-pitch version, and this year they competed in the NCAA, which plays the fast pitch version.

Several freshmen played big roles for the Lady Eagles this season, especially catcher Joan Copeland of Huntsville, Ala., who was the only player to hit over .300. She had 18 hits in 57 at-bats for a .316 average. The former Butler High School standout also paced the squad in stolen bases with four.

Another freshman who had an outstanding "rookie" campaign was Stephanie Jones of Pascagoula, who had 13 hits in 46 at-bats this season for a .283 average. She tied for the team lead in doubles with three and was tied for second in runs batted in with six.

Senior Linda Blackwell of Huntsville, Ala., had the third highest average among the regulars, at .241. She tied for the team lead in doubles with three and was the team leader in runs batted in with 10.

Sophomore Donna Legg of Hartselle, Ala., was the top pitcher for the Lady Eagles, starting 14 of 16 games and completing all 14 contests while posting a record of 6-8. She pitched one shutout, a 4-0 win over Mississippi University for Women, while the other shutout posted by the team came on the combined efforts of Blackwell and freshman Lynda Hubbard of Hurley.

Oddly enough the Lady Eagles were a better team in games away from home than in games played on campus. They won just once in six games at home, but won six of 10 on the road.

The Lady Eagles defeated LSU-Alexandria (twice), the University of New Orleans (twice), MUW (twice) and Northeast Louisiana. The losses were to Northeast Louisiana (three times), Mississippi State (four times) and MUW (twice).

Two of the three losses were in extra innings. Northeast Louisiana beat the Lady Eagles 7-4 in nine innings in the season opener and MUW beat them 3-2 in 10 innings in the season finale.

Fishermen can save money by raising worms for bait

Fifty cents here, a dollar there, after a while the cost of buying worms for weekend fishing trips begins to mount up. People can stretch the recreation dollar a bit farther by raising their own red worms.

Dr. Ross Shelton, a wildlife specialist for the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said worm raising actually involves very little knowhow and even less cash outlay.

He said the following materials are needed to raise red worms:

- A galvanized washtub or similar container which has been covered with asphalt or painted. If a large quantity of worms is desired, then a discarded refrigerator or freezer box makes a good container.

- Screen wire for covering tub

- Lard and cornmeal
- Sulphur dust
- A piece of burlap and one quart watering jar.

The container should be at least two feet in diameter and 10 inches deep.

Shelton stressed that the type of soil used is very important. Sandy soil cannot be used because the sharp grains of sand injure the worm's digestive tract.

"Soil can be tested for sand by rubbing it between the fingers," he said. "If you feel sharp grains, the soil is not suitable."

He said a clay loam or a porous clay is most satisfactory for raising worms. If the soil does not contain considerable organic matter, mix enough dead leaves or rotted straw with it to equal one-fourth of its volume. Fill the tub eight inches deep with this mixture.

Once the bedding is in place, add water to the soil until it is moist throughout. Be careful not to add more water than the soil can absorb. Usually one quart of water added every two weeks is sufficient. Keep the soil moist enough so the worms can be found in the upper three to five inches of soil.

For feed, mix one pound of cornmeal and about one-half pound of lard or vegetable shortening with the top two or three inches of soil. Repeat this procedure after one month and then at two week intervals. Usually about one quart of water will be needed at this time.

"The cost of feeding worms is about 20 cents per month, or $2.40 per year," Shelton said.

As soon as the soil and water are ready, add 100 or more

English worms (or red worms) to the tub. Cover the soil with damp burlap bags to prevent evaporation. You can buy worms or obtain them from a friend's worm bed. They need no other attention.

"Within four to six weeks, you will find numerous small worms, and in six months the soil should be saturated with worms," Shelton said. "A tub of the size we are talking about, should produce 3,500 to 5,000 worms each year."

Shelton said lard will attract such pests as mites, ants, rats and mice. Mites, small grayish animals about the size of a pinhead, can be controlled by dusting the top of the soil with sulphur dust. Rats can be controlled by securing a screen wire over the top of the tub. To control ants, set the tub on small blocks set in pairs of oil.

To harvest, remove the soil containing the worms from the tub and throw it loosely into a 10 quart bucket. Let it stand about 30 minutes. Remove the top soil from the bucket and put it back in the tub. Most of the worms will be concentrated in the bottom few inches of the bucket, Shelton said.

Contact your county agent for further information on raising red worms.

USM plans football, basketball camps

University of Southern Mississippi head coach Jim Carmody will hold his annual football camp on June 5-10. The camp is open to anyone age 10 through rising seniors in high school.

The Eagle coaching staff will offer young men expert instruction in all phases of football: Running, passing, punting, receiving, place-kicking, blocking, tackling (form only, no contact) strength building, agility and quickness.

The camp will be divided into three divisions according to age, size, and ability, with groupings within each division according to positions.

The Eagle staff will adjust instruction to the specific abilities of the athletes, teaching basic fundamentals and essential skills with emphasis on individual conditioning and development. The athletes will study theory, rules, play situations, play patterns, game films, leadership and sportsmanship.

The cost of the camp is $135 and this covers instruction, room, meals, insurance, a USM camp tee-shirt, a football handbook, and a graduation certificate. A day camper's fee of $90 will cover costs of all of the Camp's benefits except housing and the morning and evening meals.

Assisting coach Carmody will be camp coordinator Thomas Coleman, USM's defensive coordinator and Eagle assistant coaches Keith Daniels, Rich Coachys, Dyer Carlisle, Jerry Fremin, Ron Cheatham, Ronnie Gray and Rick Trickett.

Applications or additional information may be obtained by writing USM's Department of Conferences and Workshops, Southern Station Box 5136, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5136 or the USM Football Office, Southern Station Box 5152, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5152.

The USM football camp is sanctioned by the Mississippi High School Activities Association, Mississippi Private School Activities Association and the Activity Associations of other states.

BASKETBALL CAMP

Southern Mississippi head basketball coach M.K. Turk will hold his annual All-American Basketball Camp for two sessions this summer. The first session, June 13-17, is for players in the seventh through the ninth grades, while the second session, June 27-July 1, is for players entering the 10th through 12th grades.

The fee for full-time campers is $130. This includes meals and housing, insurance, awards, recreational facilities, and camp tee-shirt. The fee for daytime campers is $100. This includes lunch and dinner and the other benefits of the full-time camp except for housing and breakfast.

A special team rate of $115 will also apply to each school with five or more campers.

The camp includes several special features, such as individual trophies, an official game night, individual and team instruction, game and metro Conference highlight films and a camp all-star team.

The camp will be directed by coach Turk, who has guided the Golden Eagles to four

Golden Eagles close golf season

Southern Mississippi concluded its 1982-83 golf season this past weekend finishing in a tie for 13th in the Mississippi State/Coca Cola Country Club of Jackson Intercollegiate. The University of Georgia won the prestigious event with a team total of 860.

The 1982-83 season was disappointing for the Golden Eagles but they finished third in the Mississippi Intercollegiate and had a third place finish in the Nicholls State Invitational.

The Eagles were led this season by sophomore Jamie Sydboten of Paducah, Ky., who had the lowest scoring average among the regulars at 78.45. Sydboten edged out junior Lorne McWilliams of Winnipeg, Canada, who finished with an average of 78.71 strokes per round.

Other Eagle regulars and their scoring averages included freshman Clark Dixon of Benton, Ill. (79.36), freshman straight non-losing seasons and five non-losing seasons in his seven years at USM.

Assisting Turk will be camp coordinator Mike Jones and USM assistant coach Robert McInnis plus several outstanding high school coaches from around the Southeast. Jones is also a USM assistant coach.

State bald eagle count at 26

The National Wildlife Federation counted 26 bald eagles in Mississippi in 1982, compared to just 14 the year before. The survey found 38 in Louisiana last year, after finding 44 the year before.

Having just completed the fifth annual Midwinter Bald Eagle Survey, the Federation hopes the count will indicate an increase in eagle populations in the United States.

The bald eagle, the country's national bird, is an endangered species throughout most of the nation. After a drastic decline in the 1960s, bald eagle populations in some areas are beginning to make a comeback, according to the Federation's biologists.

In 1979, the first year of the survey, the Federation counted 9,815 bald eagles. The count has been increasing each year since then, and last year 13,804 eagles were sighted.

The 1983 Midwinter Bald Eagle Survey, taken from January 2 to January 16, was compiled by volunteers working with coordinators in the 48 continental United States.

Counts were also conducted in two Canadian provinces. The results are expected to be tabulated by this summer.

Considered to be the most complete, midwinter bald eagle count available, the National Wildlife Federation survey provides eagle experts with data on where the birds live during the winter and the habitat they need to survive.

"The annual survey is taken during the winter, when the numbers of bald eagles in the lower 48 states are at their peak," said Brian Millsap, Raptor Biologist at the National Wildlife Federation and coordinator of the survey.

"During January, survey conditions are close to ideal because there is less eagle movement than at other times during the fall and winter."

Last year's bald eagle survey counted 13,804 bald eagles in the lower 48 states, a slight increase from the previous year's total of 13,710.

Jay D. Hair, Executive Vice President of the Federation, said reasons for the continuing increase are "speculative, because although there is evidence that bald eagle populations in some areas are increasing, there is also a continuing increase in the thoroughness of our survey."

"In either case, it is encouraging that we continue to count more eagles each year."

According to the 1982 survey, the largest bald eagle population was in the state of Washington, which registered 1,378 birds. The next largest population was in Utah, with 1,001, followed by Florida with 920, California with 872, and Missouri with 779.

Coordinators in North Carolina and Rhode Island counted only one bald eagle in each state, and none was reported in Vermont.

In addition to counts in the United States, 82 bald eagles were counted in Nova Scotia and five were counted in Ontario.

EAGLE RESCUE—Gabriel, as this handsome golden eagle is dubbed by staff of Auburn University's School of Veterinary Medicine, appears nearly ready to take flight back to his natural habitat after treatment for gunshot wounds to his wing. Dr. James Milton, right, who lends his professional expertise to such cases in the wildlife Rehabilitation Center, says the wound has healed nicely. Sophomore veterinary student Merrilee Holland of Ryland Heights, Ky., and Lynne McMaine of Sadville, Ky., are in charge of the replot program at the center and handle the birds during their care. Gabriel was found injured at Lake Gainesville in West Alabama by two men from the Columbus, Miss. Area Office of the Mobile District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Southern's Milam recognized

The month of April, 1983, will always be a memorable one for Dr. J. Lloyd Milam of Hattiesburg, retired educator-administrator at the University of Southern Mississippi. Within a two-week period of this month he has been advised of three separate and distinct honors to be bestowed upon him in the days and weeks to come.

• First off, the Mississippi Association of Coaches announced it had selected him as one of six men to be inducted into the MAC's Hall of Fame in ceremonies set for Aug. 5.

• Then the University of Southern Mississippi's Alumni M Club announced his election to the USM Sports Hall of Fame for induction this coming Saturday night.

And on Monday of this week the National High School Athletic Coaches Association notified him of his selection as a 1983 recipient of the association's National Distinguished Service Award, to be presented at its National Awards Banquet in Albuquerque, N.M., July 1.

The letter to Dr. Milam informing him of the latest of the three honors read, in part: "We are pleased to place the national spotlight on you in recognition of your extraordinary contribution of time, effort, and resources in the interest of the high school sports of this country. Your work with the youth of your state and nation is hereby recognized by this outstanding honor."

Earlier in his career, preceding his 32 years of service at USM, Milam was a high school coach for four years in Follet, Tex. A Mississippi native who is a graduate of Louisiana Tech and also holds two degrees from Columbia University, he once served as a YMCA recreation director and later as a physical training director at an Air Force base.

Federation seeking nominees for awards

Do you know someone who deserves to be recognized for outstanding work in conservation? Someone who is doing a good job of managing the deer herd on his land? Someone who is teaching scouts or other youth groups about the importance of sound conservation practices? Someone who is letting the public know how valuable and precious Mississippi's natural resources really are?

If you do, then now is the time to let the Mississippi Wildlife Federation know about such a person.

The Federation is accepting nominations for our 1983 Conservation Achievement Awards Program, co-sponsored by the Sears, Roebuck and Co. stores in Mississippi.

The Awards Program annually honors Mississippians who have made outstanding contributions toward the conservation of our state's natural resources. Only those people who have invested significant amounts of time, interest, and effort in some field of conservation work receive the prestigious Conservation Achievement Awards.

Awards will be given in the following categories:

- (1) Governor's Award (for overall outstanding conservation work);
- (2) Wildlife Conservationist of the Year;
- (3) Soil Conservationist of the Year;
- (4) Air & Water Conservationist of the Year;
- (5) Forest Conservationist of the Year;

(6) Youth Conservationist of the Year;

(7) Conservation Educator of the Year;

(8) Conservation Communicator of the Year;

(9) Conservation Organization of the Year;

(10) Conservation Officer of the Year;

(11) Hunter Education Volunteer Instructor of the Year;

(12) Conservation Legislator of the Year.

The deadline for nominations is May 31, 1983. Nomination forms can be obtained from the Mississippi Wildlife Federation at P.O. Box 1814, Jackson, Ms 39205. Completed nominations should be mailed to this address as well.

Flying high on sixth annual Kite Day

RUSING TO THE SCENE OF THE CRASH—Olga Boyd runs to rescue her kite during the 6th annual Kite Day held at Waveland Elementary School.

NOW LET'S DO THIS RIGHT—Stacy Dougherty, a student at Waveland Elementary School winds up the string on her kite to prepare to fly.

TEAM WORK—With everyone working together this kite will fly. Sanyal Rudolph and Chastie McManus discuss the steps to take to get it to fly.

BACK TO THE DRAWING BOARD—Brian Moore, a student at Waveland Elementary School, heads back to a good spot to launch his kite again.

GEE, IT REALLY FLYS—Preschooler, Jason Maufrey tries his hand at flying a kite while visiting the school to see his brother participate in Kite Day.

A LITTLE TAPE WILL DO THE TRICK—Waveland Elementary School Principal James Baldree helps his son, Jimmy, repair his kite.

Waveland Elementary School celebrated spring with its sixth annual Kite Day.

The public is always invited and the mothers set up a concession stand for refreshments.

Refreshments were donated by the parents. This year an estimated 200 kites were flying above the building at the school.

HEY, LOOK AT THIS—Shelly Starita and Stacey Dougherty collide as their kites soar through the air.

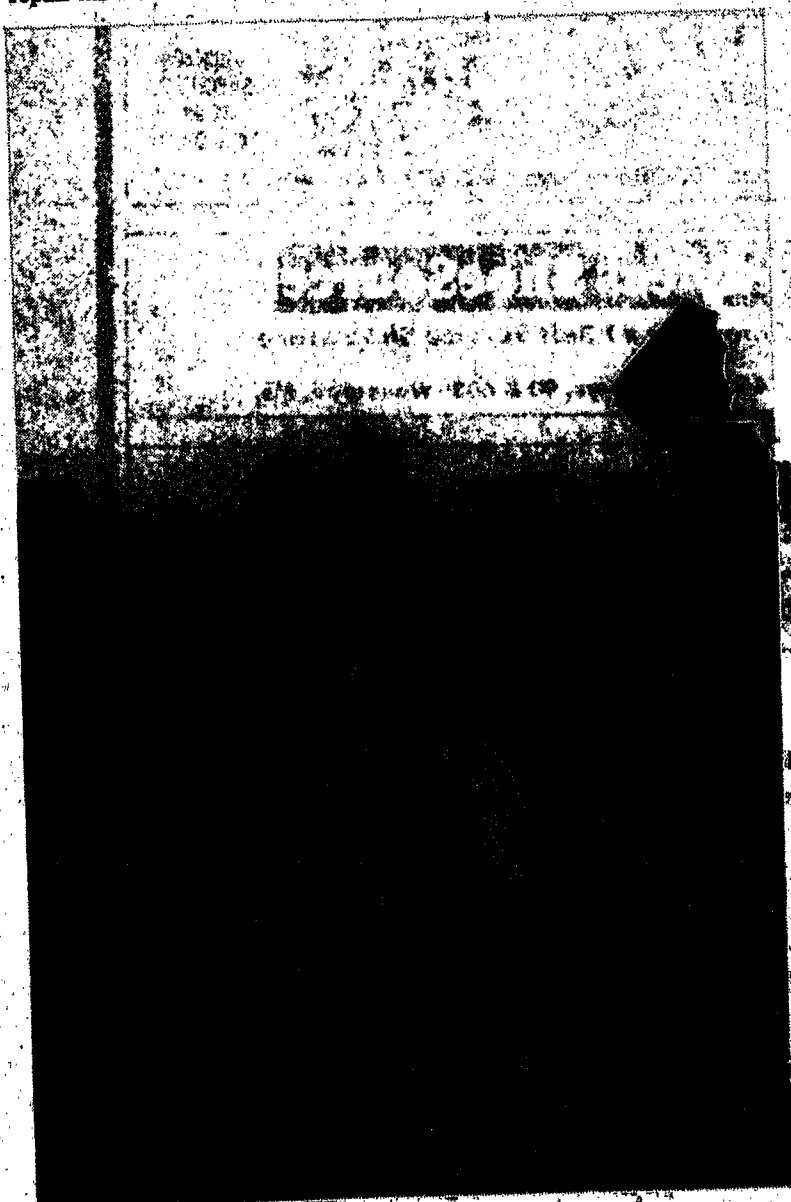

UP UP AND AWAY—Michelle Kelly getting ready to run with the kite. It eventually gets pretty high in the sky.

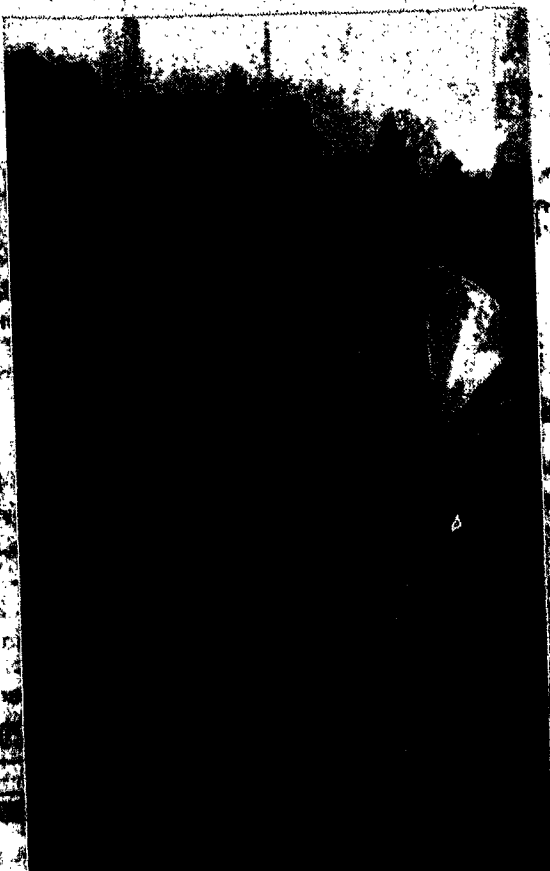

COME FLY WITH ME—Chastie McManus flies a diamond shape kite. There were all sizes and shapes of kites at the annual Kite Day.

Staff photos
by June Heydt

WOW, THIS IS FUN—Marcie Lewis and Lisa Jackson have lots of laughs.

AW, COME ON, GET UP THERE—David Gardache tries to get his kite to go a little higher.

MENTAL HEALTH ADVISORS—Richard Williams, seated second from right, director of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center's Live Oaks Halfway House, and center staff members recently hosted members of the Hancock County Mental Health Advisory Council at a luncheon tour of the new alcoholic rehabilitation facility off Creosote Road near the intersection of I-10 and Hwy. 49, Gulfport. Professional's Approach workshop offered by USM

The University of Southern Mississippi's department of finance, real estate and insurance is sponsoring a workshop, "A Professional's Approach to Curing Title—Oil and Gas," at the Longleaf Plantation.

The course is designed to meet the needs of anyone who owns land, as well as people who are professionals in the oil and gas business. It deals with title opinions, curing titles and the Landman's report. A significant amount of time will be spent on the practical aspects of title opinions and the complexities involved.

The workshop will be conducted on a Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The Longleaf Plantation is located 15 miles south of Hattiesburg on Old Highway 11 between Purvis and Lumberton.

The University is also offering an Industrial Audiotape and Hearing Conservation Workshop May 9-11.

The workshop for industrial nurses and safety engineers will be taught by faculty from the Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences. Participants will learn to test hearing and to establish hearing conservation programs in the work place.

Elementary registration scheduled May 6

Bay-Waveland Elementary will hold its pre-school registration from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. May 6 in the first grade rooms at North Bay and Waveland Elementaries.

The reason for making this announcement at this time is so that parents can be sure to have a certified birth certificate and a blue slip from the Health Department by the required date.

No student will be able to register without this information.

The student must be six years old on or before Sept. 1, 1983.

On this registration day first grade students will be staying at home. Pre-schoolers will come and register and return home.

Parents or guardians must remain with the child during registration.

When registering go first to the first grade rooms. Look for the classroom marked with the letter that begins your last name.

Children registering will be screened for speech, vision and hearing at this time.

Some general information that will be needed will include:

— Parent's name, address and phone number.

— Child's place of birth.

— Parent's place of employment and address and phone number.

— Name of the community in which the family lives.

Two emergency telephone numbers.

— Name of the kindergarten attended, if any.

Parents check now to insure the child has a certified birth certificate and not a copy.

Go by the Health Department in Bay St. Louis and be sure his blue slip will be complete before May 6 if you plan to enter your child in school at Bay St. Louis or Waveland Public Schools for September 1983.

Superintendent J. D. McCulloch urged:

For further information call Roger James, North Bay Elementary, 467-4757 or James Baldree, Waveland Elementary, 467-6630.

Junior college faculty raises appear likely

A 10 percent raise for employees at Gulf Coast Junior College appears likely, school president Dr. J.J. Hayden Jr. said Wednesday.

Hayden, elaborating on remarks made earlier to the GCJC board of trustees, said the Mississippi Legislature has appropriated money for the salary boosts. Lawmakers also allocated $3.5 million in new funds for non-salaried programs, something they had not done since 1976.

"Based on the Legislature's action, the college expects to receive about $1.2 million for salaries, including fringe benefits. We hope to find enough money of our own so that the fringes could be added to the 10 percent," Hayden said.

But he cautioned that the State Budget Commission could cut back the new funding; something it did last year when it trimmed off one percent, and the year before when 50 percent was lopped off.

Hayden said employee contracts will make it clear that if appropriations are trimmed, salary raises will be reduced proportionately.

Polymer Institute approved for USM

The Mississippi Legislature has passed enabling legislation approving the establishment of a Polymer Institute at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The Mississippi Polymer Institute will be housed in the Technology Center at USM and will deal primarily with research and development of new polymer products which can be manufactured in the state.

According to Dr. Shelby Thames, a polymer scientist and executive vice president at USM, new product development is needed to broaden the economic base of the state and to develop new sources of polymers to replace the dwindling world supply of oil, presently the basic raw material for polymer products.

"Mississippi primarily as an agricultural state has terrific resources that we need to exploit," Thames said. "We need to look toward soybeans and our timber products to extract from the raw materials the building blocks which can ultimately replace the by-products of petroleum," Thames said.

New products produced by the Institute would first be offered to the over 100 plastics manufacturers presently in Mississippi. If for some reason the product could not be produced in-state, then other industries would be recruited to Mississippi to manufacture the new product.

In addition to economic contributions, the Institute will also make a major contribution to the academic offerings of the USM Polymer Science Department.

"We are committed to excellence in the polymer arena," Thames said. "It (the Institute) will allow us to recruit some of the very best minds in the country."

Seed monies of $145,000 have been requested for the Institute, and additional funds will be requested from business and industry for additional research, development, equipment and staff.

The Institute will begin with two Ph.D. level polymer scientists, a support staff and the necessary equipment. The scientists' primary duties will be in research and development with limited teaching duties.

Thames likened the possible growth of the Mississippi Polymer Institute to the early days of the electronics industry at MIT and Stanford.

"We have the brain power, the energy and the capabilities to develop polymers in Mississippi," he said. "And with the time and support we will be successful."

Dixie Drawl sweeps Juco Press Association awards again

Pearl River college's student newspaper, the Dixie Drawl, set a Mississippi Junior College Press Association record in Biloxi Saturday by winning the coveted General Excellence Award for the fourth consecutive year.

The Drawl, a weekly student publication, also picked up 11 total awards and won the Division One Award for the sixth straight year.

The PRC newspaper has won the top award eight times during the past 10 years. The Drawl was first in 1974, '75, '76, '78, '80, '81, '82 and placed second in 1977 and 1979.

PRC photographer Jerry Lung, a graduate of Forrest County High School and a native of Taiwan, was elected vice-president of the association for the coming year.

The PRC student newspaper not only captured the General Excellence Award, but also set association records for most overall wins (10) during the association's 33 year history and for winning the top award four consecutive years.

Other records set by the '83 staff and in previous years include winning the Division One Award for the sixth straight year and nine out of the past 10 years, most first places in one year (11), most individual awards in one year (15) and most individual awards by one student (6).

This year the Drawl staff picked up a total of 11 awards, including 5 first, 2 seconds and 4 thirds.

Editorial editor, Carol Eubanks of Sumrall won first in columns and news editor, Linda McCarthy of Bay St. Louis won first in sports.

Feature editor Tracy Pace of Hattiesburg won second in features while co-news editor Barbie Horton of Columbia won a third in news.

Eubanks, Horton and Murphy Matheny of Oak Grove were also given third place awards for editorials.

Drawl staff managing editor Bradley Bounds of Bay St. Louis and other staff members can take credit for the first place award in make-up and design and the second place award for advertising.

In second place was the Wolf Tales from Co-Lin and in third was the Growl from Holmes Junior College. The other junior colleges finished in this order: Hinds, Southwest, Jones, Northeast, Wood, Northwest, Itawamba, Utica and East Mississippi.

The Dixie Drawl has remarkable quality for a student produced weekly," said one of the Oklahoma-based judges. "It is quite obvious the staff and faculty advisor are alert and caring."

"This is really an honor for Pearl River College and the Dixie Drawl," said Larry L. Stanford, the Drawl advisor. "It took a lot of work and dedication on the part of the staff."

The 1983 Drawl staff includes managing editor Bradley Bounds; news editors Barbi Horton, Linda McCarthy; feature editors: Sherie Ladner, Tracy Pace; sports

Facine among VICA winners

Ten Gulf Coast Junior College students who won first place honors recently in the State Vocational-Industrial Clubs of America Skills Olympics in Jackson will enter national competition in June at Louisville, Ky.

First place students from Perkinston Campus are Mark Jones of Ocean Springs, machine drafting; and member of the opening and closing team.

They are Debra Taylor, Saucier; Patricia Facine, Bay St. Louis; Mike Maples and Charles Hancock, both of Lucedale; Greg Van Court, Ocean Springs; and Kerry O'Neal and Glenda Sumrall, both of Benndale.

This is the fourth consecutive year Perkinston Campus contestants have been first in machine drafting and in the opening and closing exercises.

First place winners from George County Occupational Training Center are Junior Bailey of Lucedale, auto body repair; and Joseph Wise of Hurley, pipefitting and plumbing. Baily was also elected State Chaplain.

PRC Spring concert slated

The Pearl River College Singers, PRC's select choral ensemble, is presenting its Spring Choral Concert Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Moody Hall Auditorium on the Poplarville campus.

The concert will be divided into two sections, according to Dr. Larry Newell, chairman of the music department and director of choral activities. The chorus will present traditional secular and sacred choral works during the first section, as well as a few popular arrangements.

The second section of the concert will feature the "Mass in G" by Franz Schubert. The PRC Singers performed this work earlier in the school year as part of a Mass chorus at the University of Southern Mississippi and Junior College Choral Festival.

Guest accompanist for the work will be Melissa Kendrick, a graduate piano major at USM. Guest soloists will be Sandra Whittington, soprano; Vernon Rains, tenor; and Harold J. Powell, bass; all graduate voice majors at USM.

The public is invited to the Spring Choral Concert. There is no admission charge.

Reported child abuse cases increasing

States are experiencing an increase in actual reported cases of child abuse and sexual abuse, according to a survey by the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse. At the same time, funding cuts are reported in child abuse programs across the nation. April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month. Mississippi also has seen an increase in validated abuse cases and sexual abuse cases. The survey shows that individual worker caseload sizes are increasing. This is true in Mississippi due to the increase in cases and the loss of personnel.

Southern Company's CEO to retire continue to be one of the most progressive utility systems in the nation," Vogtle said.

Addison's election is the initial step in a planned management change to be completed with Vogtle's retirement.

"Over the next few months, Ed and I will work together closely to bring about a smooth and orderly transition of authority," Vogtle added.

Addison, a native of Collegeville, S.C., received a bachelor of science degree from the University of South Carolina in 1950. He joined the Southern electric system in 1954 as an engineer at Gulf Power.

Over the next two decades, he advanced through a number of engineering and management positions, and in 1975 he was named executive vice president of Gulf Power.

Two years later, in 1977, he transferred to Birmingham and served as executive vice president of Southern Company Services with responsibility for construction budgeting, system planning, fuel procurement, corporate planning, and operating services.

He returned to Gulf Power in 1978 as president and chief executive officer.

Addison will become the fifth president of The Southern Company since the firm's first year of operation in 1949. Since then, the company has been served by Eugene A. Yates, Clifford B. McManus, Harlee Branch, Jr., and Alvin W. Vogtle, Jr.

In other board action, the directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 42½ cents a share on the company's common stock, payable June 6, 1983, to stockholders of record May 2. This marks the 142nd consecutive quarter in which The Southern Company will have paid a dividend to its common stockholders.

EDWARD ADDISON

The Southern Company's board of directors have approved two major appointments which begin a transition in the office of the chief executive.

Alvin W. Vogtle Jr., 64, who has been president of The Southern Company since 1969, was elected chairman of the board. He will continue to serve as chief executive officer until his retirement on Nov. 1.

Edward L. Addison, 53, currently president of Gulf Power — The Southern Company's operating unit in northwest Florida — was named by the board to succeed Vogtle as president of The Southern Company.

Both appointments are effective May 1.

The Atlanta-based Southern Company is the parent firm of four electric utilities in the Southeast: Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, and Mississippi Power.

In terms of assets, these companies form the nation's largest investor-owned electric utility group.

Additional subsidiaries are Southern Electric International, which markets worldwide the technical expertise of the Southern electric system, and Southern Company Services, which provides engineering and technical services at cost to the other system companies.

In announcing the selection of the new Southern Company president, Vogtle noted that "during a 29-year career with our system, Ed Addison has been responsible for every phase of operations — from energy production and distribution to customer service and finance. And in the past five years, he has molded Gulf Power into a lean, forward-looking utility structured for the 1980s and beyond."

"His style of leadership, his administrative performance, and his ability as a communicator were major factors in his selection by the board. I'm confident that under Ed Addison's direction, the Southern electric system will

Ole Miss schedules Joffrey

The University of Mississippi's Artist Series will offer six attractions during its 1983-84 season, including performances by Doc Severinsen and the Joffrey II Ballet.

Severinsen and his band, Xeborn, will open the season Oct. 1. The Bulgarian Male Choir will perform Nov. 1 and the Canadian Brass Quintet will appear Nov. 21.

Attractions scheduled for the spring of 1984 are the Joffrey II Ballet, Jan. 17; the National Shakespeare Company, Feb. 18; and the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, March 20.

Severinsen is well known as the leader of NBC's "Tonight

The Bulgarian Male Choir will make its first American tour next fall. The choir has toured Germany, France, Austria, Italy, Spain, Great Britain and Japan. They have recorded eight albums and recently recorded with Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.

As one of the premier classical brass ensembles in the world, the Canadian Brass Quintet is in constant demand
